What is trauma insurance?

Trauma insurance provides you with a lump sum payment if you suffer a defined major medical trauma.

The payment of a lump sum can be of considerable assistance if one of the insured events occurs. For example:

- you will be able to afford the best medical care, both here or overseas;
- you will be able to gain access to the full range of rehabilitation services; and
- you will be able to amend your lifestyle if you have to or want to as a result of suffering from the insured event.

The actual events covered can vary between insurers but the following is indicative of the insured events included in most policies.

Heart conditions

- Angioplasty
- Aortic surgery
- Cardiomyopathy
- Coronary artery bypass surgery
- Heart attack
- Heart valve surgery
- Primary pulmonary hypertension

Neurological conditions

- Dementia
- Encephalitis and meningitis
- Motor neurone disease
- Multiple sclerosis
- Muscular dystrophy
- Paralysis
- Parkinson's disease
- Stroke

Blood disorders

- Aplastic anaemia
- Medically acquired HIV
- Occupationally acquired HIV

Cancer

- Cancer
- Benign brain tumour

Permanent conditions

- Loss of independent existence
- Loss of limbs and/or sight

Organ disorders

- Kidney failure
- Liver failure
- Lung failure
- Coma
- Loss of hearing
- Loss of speech
- Major head trauma
- Major organ transplant
- Severe burns

Each of the above insured events is medically defined within the policy and it is important to remember that to be eligible for a benefit payment, the definition must be satisfied. For example, it is not sufficient to simply be diagnosed as suffering from cancer.

The type and severity of the cancer must meet the defined criteria.

Trauma insurance is usually attached to a term insurance policy. It can, however, be taken as a stand-alone policy in which case, for a benefit to be payable you need to 'survive' the insured event for the period set out in the policy, usually 14 days.

What are the chances of suffering an insured event?

The chance of suffering an insured event, under a trauma insurance policy, prior to age 65 is:

- one in three for a female; and
- one in two for a male.
